1. You look up the programmes before you put the TV on.
A) Rarely B) Sometimes C) Often
2. If there isn't a programme which interests you, you don't switch on the TV.

3. You've got favourite programmes which
A) None B) Some C) Many
4. You like talking to friends about television programmes.
A) Rarely B) Sometimes C) Often

What sort of viewer are you?

- Majority of A answer.

For you watching TV is a way of escaping from reality. TV keeps you company and doesn't ask for much in return. Be careful not to isolate yourself from others or give up more interesting things. Sometimes it's good to escape from reality, but it's important that you shouldn't do it too often.

- Majority of B answer.

Television isn't very important for you. It's no problem to give it up if there's something more interesting to do. But if you have to stay at home you watch whatever's on that night. So, be careful not to be too superficial in choice!

- Majority of C answer.

You've got an active relationship with TV. You have a good critical sense and know how to choose programmes. Be careful not to give TV too much importance and don't let it influence your language and way of life too much. Sometimes it's better to read a book.
